Has anyone given any thought to starting a London.pm or UK.pm group? If not, I'd like to volunteer to get the ball rolling. Is there anyone else who would be interested in getting involved? Would any of the US Perl gurus be interested in coming over and speaking at a meeting in London?

I really don't know how popular Perl is in the UK, so this is all very experimental.

Hoping to hear from UK-based Perl M[ou]ngers.

I've had quite a good response to this post. Enough to make me think that this is worth pursuing further. I'd therefore like to announce the official opening of the London Perl M[ou]ngers group.

We have a web site at <http://mag-sol.com/London.pm> and soon we'll be thinking of a venue for our first meeting.

If you write Perl in London (or near enough to get to a pub) please get in touch with us.

London Perl M[ou]ngers

Welcome to the world of the London Perl M[ou]ngers.

We are a new group who are dedicated to the encouragement of all things Perl-like in London.

If you had a particularly bad sense of humour, you might describe us as 'Perly Kings and Queens'... please forget I said that!

A close-up photograph of three glasses of beer being clinked together in a toast. The glasses are filled with a golden beer topped with a thick head of white foam. The background is dark and out of focus, with some blurred lights. The text is overlaid in the top right corner.
